

Changes to the Electronic Disposition System (EDS) Related to File Number for Consultation (FNC) Requirements and Associated Applications for Licences of Occupation

On July 27, 2017, changes to the File Number for Consultation (FNC) Requirements for associated applications submitted through the Electronic Disposition System (EDS) came into effect.

Applicants are now able to submit and associate a Licence of Occupation application that has a different FNC requirement than the primary application being submitted.

For instance, as outlined on the PLAR Tables, an applicant submitting a Miscellaneous Lease application for the purpose/activity of a Storage – Industrial, that requires an FNC requirement of Adequacy Decision (AD), can now associate a Licence of Occupation application for the purpose/activity of Access – Class I – All Weather, that requires an FNC requirement of Pre-Consultation Assessment.

The following primary dispositions types that allow for an associated Licence of Occupation are as follows:

- Easements
- Mineral Surface Leases
- Miscellaneous Leases
- Pipeline Agreements
- Pipeline Installation Leases
- Rural Electric Association Easements
- Surface Material Leases
- Vegetation Control Easements

Please note: The application that has an FNC requirement of Pre-Consultation will still need to have an FNC decision of Adequate or No Consultation Required prior to a disposition being issued.
